

DPC SPONSORS CLEANUP OF THREE DELTA SITES AS PART OF 2006 COASTAL CLEANUP DAY

Delta Protection Commission staff and several volunteers were on hand to clean up the environment at three locations throughout the Delta, to celebrate 2006 Coastal Cleanup Day (September 16, 2006).

Volunteers removed over 4,000 pounds of recyclables and trash that included clothing, fishing wire, and miscellaneous items from the three sites. Volunteers at the sites have had their names entered into a raffle for Coastal Cleanup Day t-shirts and license plate covers, gift cards, and Marine World tickets. Site-specific information includes:

- Clarksburg Public Fishing Access, Yolo County
Thirty volunteers collected 400 pounds of recycleables and trash, including metal lawn chairs and clothing.
- Hog Island, Stockton Deep Water Ship Channel, San Joaquin County
Thirty-seven volunteers collected 3,500 pounds of recycleables and trash, including a porta-potty.
- Rio Vista Waterfront, Solano County
Five volunteers collected 130 pounds of recycleables, trash, and hazardous waste, including a milk carton of used motor oil.

The Delta Protection Commission sponsored cleanup of these three sites as part of The California Coastal Commission's annual Coastal Cleanup Day, a one-day event seeking to mobilize local groups and citizens to help keep their local parks, trails, and waterways clean and safe for the enjoyment of all.
